

Dr. Cody Morris Paris is the Deputy Director of Middlesex University Dubai and an Associate Professor in the School of Law. He is a Senior Research Fellow with the University of Johannesburg. He holds a PhD in Community Resource Development, a MSc in Tourism Studies and a BIS in International Geography and Political Science with minors in Cultural Anthropology and Tourism from Arizona State University. He has published widely in top peer reviewed journals and his research has been recognized through several prestigious awards including the TTRA Keeling PhD Dissertation Award, TTRA Charles Goeldner JTR Article of Excellence, and the IFITT Article of the year in IT and Tourism. In addition to serving on the TTRA APAC board, he also serves on the Executive Board of the Association for Tourism and Leisure Education and Research.

He is a social scientist with varied research and teaching interests within the areas of: Tourism, Experiential Learning, Technology, Sustainable Development, Mobilities, International Politics, and Global Security. He has supervised more than 200 undergraduate and master's student dissertations to completion across multiple disciplines including International Relations, International Politics, International Development, Social Policy, Marketing, Entrepreneurship, Business Strategy, and Tourism.

Cody serves on the Board of Directors of Amizade (www.amizade.org), a global-service learning and community development NGO with UN Consultative Status. He has travelled to more than 115 countries, and has develop and/or lead international study abroad, service learning, and other forms of experiential learning programmes to Caribbean, Australia, Fiji, United Arab Emirates, Europe, Singapore, Ghana, and North America.