

Sara Brune is a Research Associate in the Department of Parks, Recreation, and Tourism Management at North Carolina State University. Her research interests focus on the power of tourism experiences to instigate desirable behaviors and its intersection with inclusive sustainable development.