

Emily Yeager is an assistant professor of sustainable tourism at East Carolina University. She focuses on helping communities build socio-economic-environmental resilience in the face of certain change.